A PRIAM OF FIRE.—The Chicago Times describes a singular appearance in the heavens manifest during the prevalence of a large fire recently. For nearly an bour the sidewalks on Clark, Dearborn and adjoining streets were crowded with a multitude of thousands intently garing in the direction of the "setting sun." The night was dark, but to the west the fire lit up the horizon for considerable apace. This was nothing more than usual, and would a have attracted only a passing glance. But above this lurid reflection there shot upward a "pillar of fire," such as in shape, size and color was never seen before. It was a sight to fill the breast with awe and set the mind to wonder, Its allitude was no less than seventy degrees, with a breastan nearly that of the rainbow, even up to the highest pinnacle. For a base was the dark red reflection, proper, of the fire, then commenced the pillar, of a pale yellowish hue; half way up it turned to a light red, and the whole was surmounted by a glowing dark red crown. Thes it would sometimes draw down within itself, as it were, and then suddenly shoot up into the sky, for a moment giving a brilliant hue to the each of the commence was unquestionably the fire, but the immediate cause which produced this beautiful formalien is a nuz-

It was not unlik a magic, many-colored fountain, as it rose and fell, but a thousand times more grand and imposing. It was on of nature's efforts, beyond imitation and beyond de-
